Hobe Sound Public Library, Hoke Library and Elisabeth Lahti Library to partially reopen

On Tuesday, September 1, the Hobe Sound Public Library will partially reopen to provide computer access, printing and copying, reference services, and item pick-up. The magazine and newspaper racks and children's areas will be closed until further notice. On Friday, September 4, the Hoke Library in Jensen Beach will follow suit and on Wednesday, September 9, the Elisabeth Lahti Library in Indiantown will do the same.

For the health and safety of all visitors, face coverings are required and a limited number of patrons will be admitted at a time to allow for 6-foot social distancing. The libraries will close midday from 12 to 2 p.m. for cleaning (closing will be 3 to 5 p.m. on their respective late day). Holds pick-up service will remain available while the libraries are closed for cleaning. The library is quarantining items and asks that all returns be placed in the outside book drops.
