

HURRICANE

PREPAREDNESS

You are urged by the Martin County Emergency Management Agency to plan ahead as to your course of action if a hurricane should threaten to hit the Martin County area. Consider the alternatives – review the checklist – BEFORE DISASTER STRIKES!

PLAN A
Relocate outside the threatened area

PLAN B
Stay with Local friends or relatives

PLAN C
Stay Home

PLAN D
Go to a Red Cross Shelter

MAKE A PLAN

Plan A: Relocate outside the area.

If you intend to travel a few hundred miles to get out of the threatened area, use a current road map to plan a route and stay clear of major bodies of water. If you have ill or disabled persons in your home, get a doctor's advice on where they should stay if a hurricane hits. If you relocate, do it early so you'll avoid traffic jams and dangerous winds.

Plan B: Stay with local friends or relatives.

If you do not use Plan A, and if you expect to stay at someone else's home during the next hurricane, arrange it in advance. You'll want to be sure their place will be adequately prepared and supplied. Better have an alternate plan ready, too - in case a hurricane comes when the other folks are out of town.

Plan C: Stay Home.

If you don't use Plan A or B, but plan to stay home, make sure that your home can withstand a hurricane, and that you are in reasonably good health. A house or apartment building that meets current Martin County Codes, if kept in good condition, and not located in a shore area, could be safe during a hurricane - provided you make the necessary preparations. (A mobile home is not safe in hurricane conditions, no matter how securely it's affixed to the ground.)

Plan D: Go to a Red Cross shelter.

If you do not use Plan A, B or C, emergency shelters will be available in assigned Martin County schools. When such shelters are opened, they'll be announced on radio and television. If you plan to go to a shelter, be sure to leave as soon as the shelter's opening is announced, and bring along irreplaceable documents, and bedding.

No Pets will be admitted in a shelter - you must make prior arrangements.

MANY PEOPLE MAY HAVE TO EVACUATE

In order to prevent widespread loss of life, it may be necessary for many persons to evacuate their homes if a hurricane threatens a direct hit on Martin County.

Barrier islands, as well as mainland shore areas, may have to be evacuated, depending on how hard a hurricane is expected to strike.

If this becomes necessary, authorities will broadcast announcements as to which localities should be evacuated.

If you hear such an announcement, and if you are in a location to be evacuated, it's vital that you get out without delay!

If too many residents are too slow in evacuating, bridges and causeways may become clogged, and many people could be trapped as a result. A hurricane causes sea levels to rise above normal tidal heights - with giant wind-driven waves and strong, unpredictable currents. These are the hurricane's worst killers.

Anyone living in a low-lying locale which may be swept over by high tides or storm surges should go to a prearranged safe location or travel completely outside the threatened area.

ADVANCE HURRICANE PREPARATIONS

The hurricane season extends from June to November. Here are some preparedness steps that ought to be taken, even before any hurricane watch or warning is announced:

If You Plan To Stay At Home Make Sure You Have These Items:

- Battery-operated radio
- Flashlight with extra batteries and bulbs
- Extra drinking water
- Emergency cooking facilities
- Fuel
- Matches
- Canned foods and canned milk
- Extra medicine, baby food, etc.
- First aid kit
- Strong boards, for boarding up windows
- Bleach
- Check to be certain that your emergency equipment is in good working order, and that your supplies are adequate to last several days if necessary.
- Be sure that all fire extinguishers are ready for use.
- If you have a large boat, make arrangements in advance for safe harbor in the event of a hurricane, as most draw bridges will be locked down.

A "hurricane watch" means a hurricane may threaten an area.

A "hurricane warning" means a hurricane is expected to strike an area.

WHEN A HURRICANE WARNING IS ANNOUNCED

- Pay attention to official announcements on radio and television from the National Hurricane Center and the Emergency Management Agency.
- If you are in an exposed beach area or island, be ready to evacuate early. Pre-storm tides may cut you off if you don't move soon enough.

You Will Not Be Asked To Leave Your Home Unless Your Life Is Seriously Threatened. If You Receive Word To Leave, GO!

Gas up ahead of time to avoid lines at service stations. Gasoline might be unavailable for days after the hurricane strikes.

If you're going to drive anywhere before the hurricane comes, do it early. Help prevent traffic tie-ups and avoid storm damage. As winds become more forceful, they will make vehicles harder to control, as well as filling roads with debris. Pavements may become undermined and collapse under the weight of a car.

- If you are relocating outside the hurricane-threatened area, carry a current road map and follow a route that stays away from seashores, lakes, canals, etc. As the hurricane comes ashore, roads near major water bodies may be flooded even if they're many miles inland.

Your Property

- Tie down or bring inside any outdoor objects that hurricane winds can transform into missiles of destruction: garbage cans, patio furniture, garden tools, signs, toys, etc. Remove coconuts from trees.
- Close shutters. Lash or remove awnings. Brace sliding glass doors and French doors.
- If you board up your house, nail securely.
- When you're taking down limbs or antennas, keep in mind that if the object you're holding makes even the slightest contact with a power line, it could cause you a serious electrical shock.
- If you can do it safely, without getting in contact with utility wires, remove any tree limbs that look like they could cause damage.
- If you want to take down your television antenna unplug the set first. The TV antenna is electrically charged.
- When lowering your citizens band radio antenna, telescope it down if possible. If it won't telescope down, look around in all directions and then lower the CB antenna away from power lines.
- Don't drain your swimming pool; draining just increases the possibility that the pool will pop out of the ground. Do turn off electricity to pool equipment (pump, motor, lighting, chlorinators). If filter pump is exposed, wrap with waterproof cover and tie securely. Add extra chlorine in pool, to prevent contamination.
- If you have a small boat (the size that can fit on a trailer), put the boat on the ground, remove the outboard motor, lash the boat down and half fill it with water. If you have a large boat, dock it in safe harbor.

Food, Water, Medicine

- Double check to be certain you have adequate supplies of nonperishable foods, baby food if needed, medicines, etc., to last up to several days.
- Turn your refrigerator and freezer to colder settings. Open only when absolutely necessary, and close quickly. If you take these precautions, a well-built, well-insulated and well-stocked refrigerator/freezer can maintain food-preserving temperatures up to two days without electricity.

You might have to depend on your own emergency sources of water and cooking heat. Electric utility service may be shut off as a safety measure when winds reach hurricane force, or could be interrupted for hours or even days if the hurricane causes heavy damage to power facilities. County water supplies may also be interrupted by hurricane damage.

- Prepare your emergency water supply before the hurricane strikes. Sterilize the bathtub as well as available jugs, bottles, cooking utensils and other containers. Scrub thoroughly ... then sponge and swab with bleach ... then rinse. Let the tub and other containers dry. Then fill with water. Remember, later, to boil the water before drinking it. Your hot water tank is also a source of potable water.

DURING THE HURRICANE

Stay Indoors:

- If the calm eye of the hurricane passes through your area, continue to stay indoors - unless emergency repairs are absolutely necessary. Wind and rain may stop for as little as a few minutes or as long as a half hour or more.
- BEWARE: The wind will pick up again - from the opposite direction, possibly with greater force than before!
- If the electricity goes off, use flashlights instead of candles or kerosene lamps when possible. And be careful with cooking flames. A gust of wind through a door or window could help start an accidental fire. The fire department may not be readily available when hurricane winds are blowing.
- Use your telephone for emergencies only: jammed phone lines may obstruct emergency calls for police, firefighters, doctors and Red Cross disaster units.
- Continue to conserve refrigeration. Open the refrigerator/freezer door as little as possible.
- Continue to listen to radio or television for announcements from the National Hurricane Center and the Emergency Management Agency.
- Remain indoors until the official "ALL CLEAR" is given. (If you're in a Red Cross shelter wait for the "ALL CLEAR" announcement to be made by your shelter manager.)

AFTER THE HURRICANE

- Pay attention to instructions from official sources such as the police and the Emergency Management Agency.

Avoid Electric Shock:

- Don't touch fallen or low-hanging wires of any kind, under any circumstances.
- Stay away from puddles having fallen wires in them. Don't touch any tree or object that's in contact with power lines.

Beware of weakened roads, bridges, tree limbs or porches which may collapse unexpectedly.

- Use your telephone for emergencies only:
 - Do call the police or utility immediately to report hazards such as "live" power lines, broken gas or water mains, or overturned gas tanks.
 - Don't use the phone to report interruptions in individual electric, gas, water or telephone service. Utilities have plans for complete service restoration. Report individual trouble to the utility only after service is generally restored in your neighborhood.

□ If you are relying on emergency cooking facilities, lanterns or candles - remain cautious! In the event of an accident fire fighting will be difficult if water mains have been damaged by the hurricane.

- If your electricity is off, continue to conserve refrigeration.
- After power is restored, check food for possible spoilage.
- When you put up your CB or TV antenna again, check in all directions and make absolutely certain that if the antenna should happen to fall, it won't touch a powerline.
